

Helen Bailey:

I graduated in 1990 with a BA Hons Degree in Fashion Design, worked with various fashion designers and freelanced as a designer/pattern cutter for a large bridal wear chain. When I left in 1995, I opened a bridal wear shop under my own design label 'Helen Bailey Bridal'. Outgrowing my shop in 2001, I purchased an existing bridal wear design and manufacturing company, adding my label to this I successfully supplied stores and small boutiques all over the UK. I had been designing and producing bridal wear from 1988 until my business finally closed in 2004.

As well as designing and making for my own clients, I worked freelance on various projects by Prof. Helen Storey, using my knowledge & working closely with the designer linking Art and Science for exhibitions that were displayed around the world.

Teaching design and pattern cutting on various Btec and Degree courses was a great asset to add to my skills set, I taught students up until I started working full time with SETPOINT Hertfordshire now STEMPOINT.

I have been with STEMPOINT since September 2009 starting as a general administrator/accounts and over time using my experience, developed my role to Schools/Events Coordinator, plus Accounts.
